Cures Dyspepsia; Trial Is Free

It is a popular mistake that only wealthy people who eat rich and highly-spiced foods suffer from dyspepsia, or, as it is also known, indigestion. The laborer in the street, the worker in the field also finds himself a victim of this disorder. Among the very greatest sufferers from it are women.

Dyspepsia is indicated by a constant feeling of laziness, by loss of appetite and troubled sleep, by sour stomach and distress after eating, by bad complexion and listless eyes.

There is no surer and speedier cure for this trouble than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which dyspepsia have been successfully cured for twenty years. This great herb laxative compound cured Capt. Clark, of Buffalo, la. of dyspepsia and sour stomach that he had had for forty years, or until the lucky day that he heard of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It cured Joel Adams, of Montgomery, Ala., after suffering continuously for sixteen months. These are only a few of the many. But it is not expedient to be cured with this grand remedy, as it can be bought at any drug store in a 50-cent or $1 bottle.

Your very neighbors are probably lifelong users of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, but if you want to know without expense what it will do for you personally, send your name to Dr. Caldwell and he will send you a free trial bottle. He is actually anxious to have you make a test of his remedy.

Thousands of families everywhere keep it in the house against such an emergency as constipation, sour stomach, indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia, heartburn, torpid liver, etc. which may come on a member of the family any day. It is pleasant to the taste, acts gently and does not gripe. It is the great children's laxative tonic.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 530 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

James Cotter and Bert Butterfield were tried in Justice Furnas' court yesterday upon a charge of running their threshing machine across bridges and culverts without protecting the same by the laying down of planks across them as the law provides. Complaint is made that many bridges and culverts have been put out of repair in this way. The parties pleaded guilty to the charge against them and were fined $5 and costs, the minimum penalty. The court also required them to repair the bridges they had damaged, which they agreed to do.—Linneus Bulletin.

While Company I of the engineers' corps was in camp in Norborne Thursday two privates concluded they had been in the army as long as they wanted to serve, and took French leave. When the sergeant reported the absence of Dillon and Bartholomew, and the information that they had gone without leave Capt. Caples sent out three telegrams with their description and asked for their arrest and detention. Late Thursday night a telegram was received from the chief of police of Marceline, saying that the men were under arrest in that city. A guard was sent for the men and they will be tried for desertion and on conviction will probably serve a three-year term in the federal prison at Leavenworth. Capt. Caples is a strict disciplinarian and while the company was in camp in Norborne one non-commissioned officer was reduced to the ranks. The Company left Norborne early Friday morning on their way to Fort Leavenworth.—Norborne Democrat.

Another Letter from Europe.

We publish below another interesting letter, descriptive of his travels in Europe, from Geo. C. Mackay, a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mackay, Jr., of St. Louis, who were residents of Keytesville before moving to the Missouri metropolis:

AMSTERDAM, August 1, 1909.
DEAR FATHER:—

As you see we are now in the city which gave rise to the jet of Erasmus of Rotterdam that he knew a place where inhabitants dwelt in the tops of the trees like ricks. Every day that we were in England, Paris, Belgium and Holland it has rained, every one is complaining of the wet and bad season. Received our mail to-day. Am gratified to learn that everything goes well. Since writing you last week about our time in France we have covered a considerable ground, have seen all of the chief places of the Netherlands and first of Bruges. Without question it is an extremely fascinating old town, still preserving most of its mediaeval picturesqueness. I read in Gillat Smith's "The Story of Bruges" that Bruges (means Bridges) has a continuous history dating from its conquest by Caesar. Its importance began in 865 when the powerful line of the counts of Flanders settled here. In the 13th century Bruges possessed commerce ranking with that of Venice. Its decline dates from the 15th century, due to the filling up of its harbor. Since then it sleeps and at present very soundly. Bruges possesses a marvelous belfry dating from 1280. It is 352 feet high. It was this old watch tower that inspired Longfellow to write this:

"In the market-place of Bruges
Stands the belfry; old and brown,
Thrice consumed and thrice rebuilt,
Still it watches o'er the town."

The town also possesses a fine square with a beautiful town hall, some Gothic churches and most quaint corners. We left Bruges with regret and wended our way to Ghent where we spent the day. The pride of Ghent is its cathedral of St. Baun with a fine old painting of the Van Eyck's "Adoration of the Immaculate Lamb," dating from 1432. We stumbled into another place called the Beguinage. It is a colony of unmarried women who have devoted themselves to religious life and to works of charity. It is a city in itself walled off and has about 600 inhabitants. The members pay yearly board of 110 francs besides an entrance fee of 500 francs for a dwelling. Two years of novitiate must be undergone before they can be elected as sisters. The younger sisters live together in convents under a dame superieure. After six years they may retire into one of the separate houses containing rooms for four or six occupants. The sisters must attend worship at 5 a. m. and at sundown. We arrived about that time (sundown.) It was very impressive to see the service and those sisters with blue robes and white linen headgear. Considerable of their time is devoted to lace-making by hand.

In the church of St. Nicholas I found the tomb of one Oliver Minson and wife, who, it stated, had together one and thirty children. From Ghent we came direct to Hague and went to the famous watering place, Scheveningen, where they do not allow you to stand and look at any one in bathing, but you must keep walking or moving on. Hence to Leiden for a fascinating water excursion all day through canals and locks. We struck Leiden on market day and saw various kinds of cattle, sheep and vegetables, huddled together in one conglomerated mass. We came direct to Amsterdam, find it very interesting. Leave here for Cologne, and take a steamer up the Rhine to Maysauce, from there to Heidelberg, Nassenburg and Rothenberg wending our way down into Italy. Will write you again soon.
With much love,
GEORGE MACKAY.
